

Ben Kwon

Dr. Xinhao Xu

ISLT 7360

03/30/2019

Website Review

The similarities that I found were that these two webpages had similar layout of the homepage. For example, there were navigation menus to choose to go to specifics. Both websites were very clear and organized. All the minor details are well shown in the website. The website has title on main page which clearly tells the viewers what the website is about. The contact information is also in the website which can be used to farther reach out to the creator of the website.

The differences that I found were how the website looked at first sight. The first website is using a slideshow to present some information about oneself, but the other website is using a video and few link tabs to click for more information. The content of the website is more shown visually for the second website since there are a lot to see at main page.

First website : The home page of the website is clear. To illustrate, the home page has its crucial and important elements only. The slide show presenting other details were used very wisely since the website can be viewed with ease. If there are lots of information to see at the home page, the viewers might lose their focus and move on to other things. Another strength of this website is that the home page slide show contains information of personal aspects. This was significant to me since the main page of the website which is the home page contains slide show with well-organized information that represents the creator's personality of the website.

Second website : This website was more overwhelming than the first website. The home page had too much components that led to other pages. This could be viewed as useful and act as advantage than other websites but I think the home page of the website should be brief and simple for the viewers to easily be attracted for more information of the website. The strengths of this website is content. There are more than enough contents in this website for the viewers to see. In order to view these contents, the navigation tabs are all working well with precise location.

The use cases for these website could be viewed in two ways. First, the viewers of the website would mostly be people who want to contact the developer in order to discuss about business. These websites contain both information and business aspect. This can enable the company to see the developer through website information first then know about the person to finally discuss about business. Another use case for these websites is that to be an example of well organized personal portfolio website. These websites are chosen as well made websites for others to check it out.

First : <http://www.ximenavengoechea.com/>

Second : <https://www.devonstank.com/>